Mr. Howland has consented to give the Fourth of July oration at Conneaut. The Conneauters are moving in the matter of a proper observance of the day.

The road that has been graded on the west side of the Nutting picnic grounds, from the lake shore road to the beach, is said to be a step of great utility.

When, which is unusually fine generally, is almost ready for the harvest—some fields already enriching the landscape with the waving of their golden heads.

The burglary of H. L. Dodge's store remains a mystery, no clue having been struck. No relief, probably, is to be looked for to either the individual or the township loss.

A depression in the gutter in front of the Ashtabula House, forms an offensive and unwholesome pool of standing water that should not be suffered to remain through the summer.

Dr. Kendall's Treatise on the horse and his diseases, a book which every horse owner should have, that he may treat his animal, if attacked with disease, intelligently.

Among our new advertisements is that of W. B. Stone, Clerk of Orwell Township, in which he asks for bids for building a new brick Town Hall. The attention of contractors is called to it.

A dredge was put to work during the fore part of the week for cutting away to the line of the improvement above the pontoon bridge, as was intimated, but after trimming the edge, left the work, without having returned to it.

Somebody sends us the Daily Optic, from Los Vegas, New Mexico, of the 14th inst. Its dimensions are 20x28 inches. It has the appearance of a border civilization institution, and contains nothing to hang a comment upon.

The ladies of the Methodist church had their social gathering at the house of Dr. King, on Wednesday night of last week, and the attendance was not less than 125. The occasion was both pecuniary and socially profitable.

When a man arrives at a realization of the fact that he is old, and it is about time to withdraw from the field of human activities, he is not far from the maturity of that wisdom which left us the lesson—"All is vanity and vexation of spirit."

Our fishermen have pulled up stakes and gone to Erie for carrying on their business, beyond the reach of Ohio laws, which seem to be enacted to protect the interests of the pound fishermen, and discriminate against the gill-net fishery.

Charles Scoville—late police officer of the village, accepted last week the berth of second engineer of the propeller Blackie, flying between Escanaba and Ashtabula, in the ore trade. He is admitted to be a very competent engineer.

Strawberries are growing small and less, and giving place to the black raspberry. While the first sells at seven cents a quart, the black caps command a shilling. The season of the strawberry has been a rather lengthy one—some four weeks.

McKennon & Evans, it will be seen by their card, have started a machine shop at the old Waterman corner, at the Harbor, and are making it a useful institution. They have the skill, are satisfied with fair compensation, and will very accommodately.

The use of Field's driving park has not been sufficient to keep the coarse twelfth grass down on the outside rim, and a resort has been had to surface plowing to get rid of it. If drivers would use the whole surface, this labor might be avoided.

The work of enumeration of the inhabitants of the village, is drawing to a close, as the enumerator had reached the fourth thousand some days since, and the common estimate is that we shall not vary much from five thousand. Farms and factories will be taken last.

Garfield and Arthur clubs are being formed in about every direction. Will not Ashtabula, also, start the ball without delay? The majority of this county should show our esteem for the man, and our hearty endorsement of the action of the Convention.

A lad of some 18 years by the name of Lovejoy, while driving one of Fuller's wagons loaded with baggage to the station, was run away with, last week, and thrown out with the baggage, and had a wrist bone broken, and the wagon was badly broken.

The first pole up in the village, in honor of Garfield's nomination, is that upon the premises of Mr. Wm. C. Haskell, on Prospect street. It lifts its tall head one hundred feet into the elemental field, and its long streamer nearly measures length with it.

Mr. Richard sends us a copy of the program of the commencement exercises of the Law Department of the National University—closing 1890, June 5th. The candidates for degrees number 27. The graduation of our friend from such an institution bespeaks the standing it will confer.

The sexton of Magdeburg, France, caught a little girl plucking a flower in a cemetery, recently, and thrust her into the dead house with four corpses. He forgot about having locked her up until the following day, and when he opened the dead house the child was found frightened to death.

We have a few more of those invoice books left, so nicely adapted to keeping a concise, tabular account of the sales of these factories. These are the first introduced into the county. Beside being bound handy, they save time and remove all chance for discrepancies between buyer and seller.

Amos C. Flisk, accompanied by Dr. Hubbard, left on Monday last for a trip east—Mr. Flisk for New England, if equal to the journey, and Dr. Hubbard for Oneida county, N. Y. As Mr. F. has not returned, as was his apprehension, the presumption is that he found himself able to withstand the fatigues of the journey.

The grading of Prospect street does not progress rapidly. Councilman Haskell has put up his oak curbs and is grading out to them, for the strip of lawn, which is to ornament the front of every one who arranges for it. The grading of the street, however, seems to have subsided for the present, with the removal of the knoll at its foot.

It is known that Mrs. Wellman—the alto in the quartette of the Presbyterian church, is off on her annual vacation among Pittsburgh friends. A Pittsburgh paper speaks of her as one of the finest alts, which is no more than true. She has given samples of her powers in some of the city churches. Her rustications we understand, have been extended to Chicago.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church had their social gathering on Wednesday evening of last week at the house of Capt. N. W. Brown and lady, on lake shore. As it is generally understood, the heartiest hospitality meets every one who lifts that latch, there were between 80 and a hundred present, and a generous and happy time was had.

The results of the meeting of the Mayor, C. E. Sloan, and a committee of the Council, with the Commissioners, last week, was that the Commissioners agreed to lengthen the pontoon bridge 20 feet at each end, without changing its character, and have contracted with Frank McKenzie to do the lengthening and driving the piles for the approaches.

Nunaville has passed through a trial for firing his goods with felonious intent to defraud the insurance companies and again for firing the building, and after a pretty well contested trial have been discharged on both. The Prosecutor was assisted by Hall Bros. for the State, and Messrs. Northway and Hoyt and Charley Sherman for the defense.

Gen. Garfield arrived at Cleveland on Sunday morning last and proceeded at once to Mentor, where he will give himself up to rest and recuperation, and indict his letter of acceptance. The General displayed good taste in the selection of his Mentor home. A more lovely place for elegant and refreshing retirement could hardly be found in the State.

A fine lithograph picture of Gen. J. A. Garfield, has been sent us, which in the way of execution is very creditable. It is got up by B. S. Green, dealer in campaign goods, Cleveland. It is a good likeness of Sam. Howells, and no friend of his would ever doubt that it was intended for him. If Sam would like to adopt it, it shall be sent over.

Twinkle is physiologist and Shakspearian at the same time. When he got down from the cask in the store on which he had been sitting and meditating, and discovered that a part of his inexpressible had been left behind, he simply murmured: "See what a rent that curious cask Ah! made," and then folded up as well as he could, and retired to his domicile.

Stephen Wells is putting that ice house right along. It is covered and will make a cozy and commodious building, but it is going to be substantial enough to support two or three hundred tons of ice above in the first story? We notice that Braden & Co.'s at Rock Creek makes 12 inch hemlock timbers, and the using of anything but oak timbers is a source of regret.

Mr. Albert Harmon drove his Satellite gelding to Cleveland the other day and left him for handling upon the Cleveland track, while Henry Dunning who has charge of Pickering's stables, is handling the Satellite filly, which we hear is doing very good work. Dunning has no superior as a reinsman, and has a number of very good colts which are showing some promise.

Mr. C. R. Noble, who has been an invalid for a considerable time, grew rapidly worse last week and died in the midst of much suffering on Tuesday morning last, from a cancerous tumor of considerable size at the top of the left lung—a post mortem having been held by Drs. Eames, Fricker and Case. The deceased leaves a wife and son. The funeral was under the charge of the L. O. F. O.

Among the varieties of strawberries raised by the Assest's is the "Monarch of the West"—the largest and most fragrant and luscious berry that has been seen in this market. They are rightly named, as we very much doubt whether any berry has been introduced that approaches them. We acknowledge the receipt of a basket, which enables us to speak of their merits experimentally. These gentlemen in their enterprise have several new varieties just coming into bearing.

Some of our citizens were imposed upon by a woman claiming to be from Plymouth, who had—as she represented—lost a leg, from white swelling. She asked help to obtain another made of cork, to supply the loss. Judge Parsons, who has a generous and tender heart, as well as a ready purse, and very modest withal, without taking note of the woman's progress of locomotion, gave her a V. Her pedals are said to be in an excellent state of preservation and elasticity.

A. & P. MURPHY.—At a meeting of the directors of the Ashtabula & Pittsburgh Railroad Co. at Ashtabula, June 22d, Mr. John Scott was elected President of the board, and Frank Semple, Secretary and Treasurer, and transfer agent, and A. P. Hubbard Assistant Secretary and Treasurer. After the meeting, the Harbor was visited, and the evidences of the handling of an increased amount of coal and ore this year, afforded an encouragement that is likely to be felt in an increased ratio upon the passage of each successive year.

The ease and facility with which propellers come in and go out of the Harbor, with its increased width, and the uniformity of the great advantages of dispatch and the comforts of satisfaction in the transaction of the commerce of our Harbor, when the improvement project shall have been completed, and the old pontoon bridge shall have given place to something that will better comport with the spirit and design of the work of improvement and reform.

An apothegm of one of our village philosophers, found expression the other night, in an effort to pierce the crania of our city Council. It was to the effect that "Nature abhors a creche." It was applied to the vegetable kingdom, and formed the basis of an argument for hunting out every tree in North Park that had this unfortunate formation, and the lopping off one limb of the same. It is fortunate that this abhorrence was not extended to the physical and anatomical world, for there is no knowing but that a follower of some other school of philosophers might have urged the same objection to our physical and anatomical formation, and then what would have become of the race?

No town of the same size and consequences as Ashtabula, enjoys the same advantages in the way of market garden supplies. From the opening of spring to the close of the season, and even through a considerable portion of the winter, our citizens revel in the enjoyment of products of the garden. Celery of the finest is to be had until the spring, so that we may say with truth, that garden vegetables are plentiful through the year. The number engaged in the business brings about competition and low prices. Our citizens, therefore, may enjoy the pleasure of gardening upon their own hook, or supply themselves with everything wanted at a price below what it could be raised for.

Is it not a little unaccountable that the beautifully wavy surface of a portion of Main street, should be preserved with so much care? Whether it is its beauty, topographically viewed, or from the undulating pleasure of riding over it, it is not easy to say, but that it should remain unchanged for so long a time—through so many administrations of councils, and not be disturbed through the management of so many supervisors of highway, would seem to be evidence that there is something about it that has commended it to special favor. If our friend Abel shall carry this through his administration with the veneration and respect of his predecessors, some one will begin, like us, by and by, to enquire for the reason, and the curiosity will be earnest enough to demand a forthcoming answer.

4th July Excursions.

The Pennsylvania Company, operating the Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago, the Cleveland & Pittsburgh, the North Western Ohio, the Erie & Pittsburgh, and Ashtabula & Pittsburgh Railways, will sell Excursion Tickets on July 3d, 4th and 5th, 1890, between stations on above railroads at reduced rates. These tickets will be good on all Passenger Trains to and from such stations as they stop at regularly, according to schedule. Should there be a sufficient number from any one station to justify the Company running special trains, arrangements can be made by applying to Division Superintendents, or by sending notice to prepare the train. This announcement is made by request of P. R. Myers, General Passenger and Ticket Agent.

Our Orwell friends, in replacing their town house, have manifested a little intelligence and good sense. In the first place, they decided to build of brick of good size, 36x20; they then determined to employ an architect, securing to the building some show of taste and architectural proportion; these two points are evidence of progress and civilization and will never be regretted. Then they placed it up on the site of the old one, the best location, perhaps, that could be selected, all things considered. The plans are drawn by Mr. David Sloan, C. E. of this village, whose competency is shown in the plans that have been courteously laid before us. The chief point to look after now, is to secure a good quality of brick. This is a point that has not been well guarded among some of the first efforts in brick building. With what we have seen, we think the citizens of Orwell have placed their job in good, trained and competent hands, and have the earnest of a good building, at a sufficiently economical and intelligent outlay.

Mr. Castle's lecture on Sunday afternoon did not call out an old fashioned Murphy audience, and those that did come were not of the class that need to be made whole, but those who respected the lecturer and his cause. During the lecture he pulled a copy of the News from his pocket and read a very good and emphatic article enforcing his topics, and then in allusion to the 45 or 50 saloons in the village raised a smile over the unhappiness caused by the mention of the fact and the consequent injury done to village reputation. This unhappiness was mostly suffered by this same News, and the two humors hardly needed to have been put in juxtaposition, as the audience, as well as the lecturer saw at once the two sets of ideas, so equally and independently balanced.

An appointment was made for four weeks from Sunday at the same hour—3:30 o'clock at Temperance Hall on Centre street—a speaker to be provided and announced in a subsequent notice.

Personal.

Miss Belle Kenny at Geneva, has been visiting friends at Ashtabula during the past week.

Mrs. McKenzie contemplates a three weeks' visit to her Canada home—St. Catharines.

Mr. Lyman MacDonald of North Springfield, Pa., spent a day in meeting and greeting old Ashtabula friends, looking as if time was treating him kindly.

Miss Junie McIntyre of Jefferson, is spending a little time with Mrs. K. McKim, prior to leaving for Boston, to complete her musical instruction.

Mr. Stannahan of the Chagrin Falls Express, made a call on Monday morning last, on his wedding trip. He has an active mind, is put up in a small parcel, and the thought arises in taking a survey of him, that husbanding one's resources, would be a capital idea in his case, where vitality is given in so slight a measure.

BOSTON, MASS.

A very pleasant occasion of the week was the event of the marriage of Miss Carrie A. McKnight of Ashtabula, O., to Mr. L. M. Eldridge, in the employ of Chickering & Son's piano forte, manufacturers of this city. The ceremony was solemnized after the Episcopal form by the Rev. Geo. S. Converse, rector of St. John's church, at the residence of Mr. Charles E. Bruce, 40 Fort Avenue. The lovely bride was richly attired in white satin, and was much admired for her charming self-possession. She was attended by the Misses Nellie and Ethel Bruce, acting as bridesmaids; Mr. Charles Powers of Boston, acted as usher. Among the guests present we noticed Miss Conklin, who gave away the bride, and Miss Lull Haskell of Ashtabula, Hon. A. C. Stone and wife of Lawrence, Prof. and Mrs. E. S. Wood of Cambridge, the mother and three brothers of the bridegroom, and many other friends and relatives. The wedding presents were numerous and elegant.

After partaking of a beautiful collation, the many friends dispersed wishing the happy pair a long life as bright and rosy as the evening just passed.

HODGE-FASSETT.

The wedding of Mr. Clark R. Hodge and Miss Flora Fassett—A Rich Floral Display.

The wedding of Miss Flora Fassett, daughter of Mr. R. M. Fassett, of the Treasury Department, and Mr. C. A. Hodge, of Cleveland, Ohio, was celebrated last night at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 1419 N. street, by Rev. Dr. J. E. Rankin, pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city. The wedding was a most charming affair, and a being the intimate personal friends of the family, General James A. Garfield, Hon. O. J. Hodge, of Ohio, and other personal friends of Hon. O. J. Hodge, the groom's father, who was present; it was concluded with refined elegance and taste. The parlor was handsomely decorated with flowers. A superb horse shoe of roses, white violets, lilies and other rich flowers were used in the decoration, which they decorated with a clapper bell of pure white violets, under the influence of which they were united in marriage. The bride, who is a slender lovely blond with large lustrous dark eyes, was attired in a cream-white dress of silken cloth, cut en princess, harmonizing beautifully with her pure and delicate style of beauty. The bride's attendants were her three young sisters, Miss Adele, Violet, and Clara, while the bridesmaids were the brides' brothers, Montague, a sister, and Isabelle. One of the prettiest features of this quiet, lovely wedding was the lovely but tasteful display of rare and fragrant flowers. Among the many costly eclectics that bloomed there, the presence of a lot of wild dates was held by the bride as the loveliest of all flowers, and the little children of the neighborhood and offered to their favorite as a token of affection for her wedding.

The wedding presents were many and valuable, and all selected with admirable taste. The ceremony of dispensing the presents for the admiration and criticism of the guests was a most commendable feat, depending on this occasion. Soon after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hodge took the 11 o'clock train for Cleveland.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

Three horses, two of them said to be quite valuable, belonging to George Balch, Middle Ridge, Madison, died last week from eating Paris green. The poison had been accidentally dropped in the pasture while conveying it to the potato field.

Mr. N. H. Towns suffered a dislocation of the wrist, of his right arm, and the break-up of one of the bones, in a tumble, while riding on Thursday morning. The accident happened on the premises of Mr. W. Sexton, in Saybrook. The bull first attacked "Cur" Sexton, and Mr. T. went to his assistance, when the bull turned upon him.

Mr. Elson A. Cook, suffered the amputation of his right fore-arm, just above the wrist, in Cleveland, on Monday of last week, the operation being skillfully performed by Prof. G. A. Jones, of that city and Dr. E. E. Warner, of Geneva. Mr. Cook was in the cavalry service in the Rebellion, was thrown from his horse, and the right wrist was sprained by the fall, and he has suffered with chronic inflammation of the injured part since. He had tried all this time to find effective treatment, but had failed, and Dr. Warner accompanied him to Cleveland to perform an amputation as a last resort. On examining the part affected, well defined tubercles were found such as are common in consumption, and as Mr. Cook's mother died of that disease, the incident is a remarkable one, as showing the hereditary nature of that disease.

Senator of 18th. M. F. Dean, Esq., on Friday informed us that the army corps has made its appearance in South Wayne. They were discovered on the farm of Mr. Kiddle on Thursday, and have done him considerable damage. Mr. David Smille has had fifteen acres of grass destroyed just over the Gumsus line.

F. M. Colman has been appointed a guard in the Ohio Penitentiary from Ashtabula County and is now at Columbus doing duty in the new role.

COUNTY NEWS.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.

KINGSVILLE.

Ed. Tel.—Rather late for items this week, yet I will venture slight allusions to a topic or two, that may perhaps be used by you.

We are all more or less interested in the disposition of a 5 year old child now in Cleveland where its alleged mother is at present caring for it. The alleged father in the oil regions of Pennsylvania, somewhere bears the name of Whittenbut, who with supposed wife and child lived in our village—the most of the time in the oil regions. A year ago last Christmas, or thereabout, on Dr. Ross put in an appearance here and at the house of Geo. Daniels put up his shingle and not long after took up his abode at Mrs. Whittenbut's. Some two weeks elapsed and anon they came up missing and a child left at the tender mercies of charity. Mr. and Mrs. John Pease, living near, vouchsafed the care of the little boy and gave him a good home. Anon Mr. Whittenbut, via correspondence, desired them to care for the child, etc. Mrs. Whittenbut—as we will call her—lived in Cleveland it seems, has all along wanted the child and on the night of May 29th with the aid of Geo. Daniels took the child away. She—the mother—was down here and with Mr. Daniels and the child on the succeeding day were overhauled by Constable Miller and brought back. On Monday morning, May 31st, the case was brought before Esquire Burton and subsequently Probate Judge Betts put the child in the custody of Mr. Pease—sufficient bail having been given as by law required.

Last Saturday, P. M., a writ of Habeas Corpus was issued from Dan R. Tilden as Probate Judge, Cuyahoga Co., the child was taken away—one Hackett of Cleveland and Geo. Daniels officiating. Thus the "bone of contention" is now located in Cleveland and more anon. The end is not yet reached. We shall likely know something about it and not be inclined to keep it a secret.

RICHMOND.

W. H. Bullard, the census man in Richmond, has ended his canvass of that town, and finds the following to be a summary of the results.

Inhabitants June 1, 1880.....1,010
Families.....248
Dwellings occupied.....328
Farms (over 3 acres).....174
Manufactories.....5
Sawmills.....4
Died in 1879.....18
Dead and Dumb 1, 1879.....9
This shows a gain of 127 since 1870. There are 122 farms, 287 houses, of all ages, in 1870. There are 676 milk cows in them, and only 68 more families than farms.—Sentinel.

ROME.

Last Friday George Jessup was severely injured. He was drawing logs with L. C. Reeve's team; George left the team to get another team out of the road, when the team he was driving started to run, he caught them by the bit, but they threw him down and ran over him, the truck passing over his shoulders and badly bruising him. Fears are entertained of internal injuries, several teeth were displaced and the jaw cracked.

From our Examiner I get the following items, which is about all his oath of office permits him to report except to his superior. The population of Rome 1880, a decrease of 1 from the census of 1870. There are 122 farms, 287 houses, of all ages, in 1870. There are 676 milk cows in them, and only 68 more families than farms.—Sentinel.
